Dear Frey,

Thank you for your enquiry – a first trip to India built around food, nature and history is exactly the kind we enjoy planning, and late November is the best time of year for it: warm sunny days, cool evenings and clear skies.

For 8 or 9 days from Delhi, I would suggest the classic Golden Triangle with a tiger reserve added for the nature:

9 DAYS / 8 NIGHTS – SUGGESTED ROUTE

- 20 Nov: Arrive Delhi; transfer to hotel
- 21 Nov: Delhi – Old Delhi by cycle rickshaw with a street-food walk, Jama Masjid, Humayun's Tomb, Qutub Minar
- 22 Nov: Drive to Agra (3.5 hrs); Agra Fort; Taj Mahal at sunset
- 23 Nov: Taj Mahal at sunrise (optional); drive to Ranthambore via Fatehpur Sikri (5.5 hrs)
- 24 Nov: Ranthambore – morning and afternoon tiger safaris in an open jeep
- 25 Nov: Drive to Jaipur (3.5 hrs); evening in the bazaars; Rajasthani dinner
- 26 Nov: Jaipur – Amber Fort, City Palace, Jantar Mantar, Hawa Mahal; cooking class in a Jaipur home in the evening
- 27 Nov: Jaipur at leisure or a village excursion; drive to Delhi (5 hrs) in the afternoon
- 28 Nov: Depart Delhi

With 7 days we would drop Ranthambore; with 9 we could add a night at a heritage fort in the countryside between Jaipur and Delhi. The food thread runs through the whole trip – our guides know where to eat in each city, and we can add a street-food walk, a cooking class and a dinner with a local family.

To put a price to it, could you tell me:

1. Your departure date (or whether 7, 8 or 9 nights suits best), and your flight arrival and departure times
2. Hotel style – comfortable 4-star, 5-star, or heritage havelis and palaces (these are a highlight of Rajasthan)
3. One double room, or twin beds
4. Whether you would like a guide in each city (recommended for a first visit) and the Ranthambore safaris

The car would be a Toyota Innova Crysta SUV with an English-speaking driver throughout. As soon as I have your answers I will send a day-by-day itinerary with hotel names and the price.

With Best Regards

Nand Singh Rathore

Hi,

Thanks for the quick response,

I think it will be 8 days, 20th to the 28th November.

I need to fly back to Mumbai on the 28th, so would it be possible to end where like Udaipur or Jaipur to avoid needing to travel all the way back to new Delhi for the flight?

We are not too fussy about hotels so 3/4 star is okay with us, unless there is a particularly special heritage hotel you think is worth it.

Double bed

How much extra would the guide be?

Kind regards
Frey

Dear Frey,

Thank you – that all helps, and ending away from Delhi is a very good idea. Udaipur is the natural finish: it has direct flights to Mumbai (about 1 hour 20 minutes, several a day), and it is the most romantic city in Rajasthan to end on. Here is how the 8 nights would run:

20 Nov – Arrive Delhi. Transfer to hotel

21 Nov – Delhi: Old Delhi by cycle rickshaw with a street-food walk, Jama Masjid, Humayun's Tomb, Qutub Minar

22 Nov – Drive to Agra (3.5 hrs). Agra Fort; Taj Mahal at sunset

23 Nov – Taj at sunrise if you wish; drive to Ranthambore (5.5 hrs); afternoon tiger safari

24 Nov – Morning safari; drive to Jaipur (3.5 hrs); evening in the bazaars

25 Nov – Jaipur: Amber Fort, City Palace, Jantar Mantar, Hawa Mahal; evening cooking class in a Jaipur home

26 Nov – Drive to Udaipur (6.5 hrs, or a 1-hour flight if you prefer) with a stop at the Chittorgarh fort on the way. Evening boat ride on Lake Pichola

27 Nov – Udaipur: City Palace, Jagdish Temple, the old city lanes; sunset from a rooftop

28 Nov – Transfer to Udaipur airport for your flight to Mumbai

HOTELS

3–4 star, comfortable and well located, with breakfast – and since you asked, I would make one or two of them heritage: a converted haveli in Jaipur, and a lakeside haveli in Udaipur with the palace across the water. They cost little more than a hotel and are the kind of place you remember. One double bed throughout.

GUIDES

A licensed English-speaking guide for the sightseeing days in Delhi, Agra, Jaipur and Udaipur (four days in all) would add INR 16000/- to the price for the two of you. For a first visit, with your interest in history, I would recommend it: the forts and the Taj are a different experience with someone who can read them for you. The Ranthambore safaris come with a park naturalist in the jeep.

With your answers I will send the full day-by-day itinerary with hotel names and the price, with and without the guides. Could you let me know your flight arrival time in Delhi on the 20th and the Mumbai flight time on the 28th?

Hi Nand,

This looks like a good plan, thanks

We haven't booked the internal flights yet, but our flight to Mumbai arrives at 9am on the 20th, then it looks like there is a 1pm flight to new Delhi, so estimated arrival 3pm?

Then from Udaipur it looks like there is a flight at 7pm back to Mumbai

Kind regards

Frey

Dear Frey,

Thank you – I am glad the plan suits you. On the flights:

Arrival on the 20th

Your international flight lands in Mumbai at 9:00 AM, and a 1:00 PM flight to Delhi works well. Please allow four hours for immigration, baggage collection and changing from the international to the domestic terminal. This time is comfortable but not generous, so I would avoid anything earlier than 1:00 PM. A Mumbai–Delhi flight takes about 2 hours 15 minutes, so you would land around 3:15 PM. With baggage, our driver would have you on the way to the hotel by about 4:00 PM. The rest of the day is kept free to settle in.

Departure from Udaipur

There are six flights from Udaipur to Mumbai before the 7:00 PM departure, so you have plenty of choice. If you would like a last morning in Udaipur, an afternoon flight around 2:00–4:00 PM allows for a relaxed breakfast and a final look at the lake before we take you to the airport; the 7:00 PM flight also works perfectly well if you want the whole day. Udaipur airport is about 45 minutes from the city, and we would have you there two hours before departure.

Once you have booked, please send me both flight numbers and times and I will finalise the itinerary and pickup details around them. If you would prefer that we book the domestic flights for you, I am happy to do so at cost.

27 Nov – Udaipur: City Palace, Jagdish Temple, the old city lanes; sunset from a rooftop

28 Nov – Transfer to Udaipur airport for your flight to Mumbai

Price: INR 2,40,000 per person (INR 4,80,000 for the two of you), including:

- 8 nights in 5-star hotels with breakfast
- Toyota Innova Crysta with an English-speaking driver throughout, with fuel, tolls, parking and all taxes
- English-speaking local guides in Delhi, Agra, Jaipur and Udaipur

- Two safaris at Ranthambore by shared canter (an open 20-seat safari bus with a naturalist)
- Rickshaw ride and street-food walk in Old Delhi, cooking class in Jaipur, boat ride on Lake Pichola
- Airport transfers

Not included: monument entrance fees (paid at each site; your guide buys the tickets), lunches and dinners, domestic flights (we can book them for you at cost), and tips.

It also shows a second option with the Oberoi hotels throughout, at INR 4,55,000 per person, in case you would like to compare.

Once you have booked your flights, send me the details and I will finalise the pickup times. A 30% advance confirms the hotels and the safari permits.
